Fullest Measure of Clothing Value

To the man who thinks, who has served his apprenticeship at the school of experience, the "hand out" scheme has little or no attraction, nor is his better judgment to be misled by any exaggerated claims of value-giving. It is just to such men that this store has always appealed, for its greater values are backed by a greater value-giving power. Six big stores and the "maker-to-wearer" selling proposition clinch every argument of greatest value-giving.
